WHEELING, W. VA., MAY 4, 1882. ninth volume, and bids fair to live long and prosper under the experienced and successful editorship of Mr. P. W. Morris

Ar the General Assembly of the U P. Church yesterday, at Rochester, N. Y., the law against instrumental music in the church service was rescinded by the close vote of 616 to 606. This was a narrow margin to go on, but when we remember how nearly unanimous the church senti ment was at one time against instrumental music, it shows what a rapid growth the counter sentiment has had. In a few years more the musical preponderance in

We had a pleasant call yesterday, from Mr. S. L. Bloyd, of Glen Easton, a merchant of that place. Mr. Bloyd was raised in Wetzel, and a few days ago made a trip ou to the region around Silver Hill and Knob Fork, where he used to live. He speaks en thusing ically of the changes that have take tivated region, and the farms, now green with excellent pasture and promising wheat and oats, present a very marked contrast to the scenes with which he was familiar twenty-five years ago.

Sheep husbandry has become an impor tant element of success, and the amount of wool yearly marketed from that region shows a handsome increase. The profits of this culture have enabled the farmers to substitute handsome white houses for the old time log cabins, and good fences for very poor ones, or rather for no fences at all, and also to clean up the land and cover it with good live stock. The wheat pros pects never were better. A large acreage was sown last fall and no injury was don by the freeze. There will also be an abund ence of apples, and also some sma fruit, although peaches, pears, cher ries, &c., were generally kill

The country around Glen Easton, and up about Terrill's school house and Rock Lick has promising prospects in the way of crops. We need not say to those who have visited that part of Marshall that it is one of the finest sections of the Panhandie. A great many sheep are raised in that region, and the land rates at $50, and $60 per acre, being highly improved. Twenty years ago it went begging at half these prices, just as over in the Silver Hill region land that is now worth $25 used to sell for $2 50 per acre.

The farmers are discussing wool prices just now, and their views are forty cents per pound. It will take forty cents to move the new clip. Some of the largest and best floc's are owned by such men as Silas and John Ingram, Peter Crow, the Pearce brothers, Thos. Allen, 'Squire Hubbs, William and David Phillips, Isaac Cox and John Hagerman. These men are paying constant attention to the improve ment of their breeds, and are contributing largely to raise the standard of sheep cul ture in the State.

There is still some wheat and corn in the hands of farmers in the Cameron district, but the holders are not very much disposed to part with it, even at $1.30 fo wheat and 80 cents for corn. A large acre age of corn is being planted. If the season is favorable, the farm products of tha region will be unusually large this year in the way of wheat, corn, oats and potatoes High prices always stimulate a large planting, and this year will prove no exception to the rule. The farmers are in good shape financially-out of debt and able to pay for all they need-and able also to hold their wool and grain until prices meet their

A large amount of timber is still shipped to the city from Glen Easton station, con-sisting mostly at present of cooper stuff. The sale of this timber, cut as it is in the winter, brings a great many dollars into the hands of people who follow the business, and assists very materially in reducing the expenses of clearing off land and reducing it to cultivation. The time was when all, or most, of this timber was burned off the land for clearing purposes but now it has an increased value. Farmer are finding out that a bunch of timber is thing to have, as, in close proximity to shipping facilities, it is as good as money at interest. It was only the other day that J. W. Mason, of Grafton, was telling us when speaking of the great necessity for a railroad from Grafton up the valley of the Valley river, that it would bring into market a vast amount of excellent lumber that is now wholly lost to the farmers of that region. There is no telling what wealth has been sacrificed in log heaps by the burning of Cherry, Ash, Poplar and even Walnut for want of shipping facilities. A railroad would have saied a mint of money in this way. The day is coming, and is not far distant, when West Virginia will see lumber hunters from other sections of the country coming into this State in quest of the very trees that have been thus

Mr. Bloyd has a brother from Kansa isiting him who has been refreshing himself with a visit to the old stamping ground in Wetzel. He says that it is a mistake for our people to leave the cheap lands of such counties as Wetzel to go West Here they have a good soil, and a healthful and genial climate, good markets and surer crops than in Kansas, and he advises all who have land in West Virginia to stick to it, and not be lured away with far off prospects in the West, most of which are never 1

The Business Outlook. The New York Eccaing Post points out that capital for all business enterprises is very abundant, not only in this country but in Europe, and is evidently only awaiting a little more certainty in regard to the crops and the general soundness of business next fall to flow to this country in ness next fall to flow to this country in larger volume than ever before. This foreign view in our affairs is in fact only a reflection of that taken by American capital, which is shown by the hesistating character of the stock market here. In the meantime, there are also favorable agencies at work which do not seem to have had as much influence on the investment of capital as they were entitled to, and of which the most prominent are the enormous increase of immigration and the growth of local traffic of the rullroads in all parts of the country. This latter feature has, to a great exteat, neutralized the loss has, to a great extent, neutralized the loss caused by the trunk-line railroad war east of Chicago, while the former is populating new States west of the Missouri Valley with a rapidity never known before in the history of the country. On the whole, therefore, it appears that for a month or two y's, there may be a period of conservative waitive, and probably also of a much needed readjustment of credits in the mercantile interests, especially in the leather, iron, grocery, and, probably, the dry-goods trade. But aside from these particulars, the general outlook for the presperity of the country at large never was better than it is now for next fall.

Randolph County Letter. BEVERLY, May 1, 1882.

The local sensation here is a fight on the emperance question that came off to-day, the victors being the anti-license party, who elected J. H. Neymouth, mayor, and G. E. Greynold, U. B. Trimble and S. N. councilmen; Clay uperintendent of streets, and Isaac Baker

The late freeze has done considerable damage to the growing crops in this sec-tion. Early wheat has been destroyed and nearly all the fruit. Early vegetables were partially distroyed.

ratirely destroyed.

The railroad question is exciting a goo deal of interest among the people deal of interest among the people especially since the result in Upshur county We are getting ripe for a vote in thi county to the Grafton & Greenbrier reac

Colonel Ben's Gold Mine.

Is Col. Ben Wilson's gold mine a clever conception on the part of some of his en place in that part of Wetzel, in the way friends, to frighten other Congressional of improved farms and improved methods candidates off the track? It is fair to sup-of living generally. Silver Hill, where he used to hunt squirrels in the woods, is now buck up against a gold mine-especially a thrifty hamlet in the midst of a well cul- after it was added to Col. Ben's other after it was added to Col. Ben's other means of offensive warfare. The product of such an institution as this, judiciously used, would cause Weizel, Gilmer, Lewis, Braxton and other strongholds to vomit forth such an army of howlers, as could take a city. Emphatically, we should say that it is extremely menacing to the hopes of Hans Good et al, for Col. Ben to have in concenhent a gold unine, to string them oncealment a gold mine, to spring upon hem suddenly.
